RUSSIANS BADLY DEFEAT TURKS

Petrograd Announces Victory in the Caucasus.

AUSTRIAN SUCCESS GROWS

Vienna Declares Russians Lost Thirty Thousand Men Taken Prisoners and Twenty-two Cannon, Sixty-four Machine Guns and a Quantity of War Materials.

London, May 5.—From the east again comes the report of fighting, which, because of its sanguinary character and the consequent heavy losses, gives that section of the great war zones the chief place in the war news.

This time it is the Turkish allies of the Teutonic contenders who are said to have been the losers. They are declared by Petrograd to have been completely defeated by the Russians in the Khori-Dilman region of the Caucasus, leaving more than 2,500 dead on the field and their survivors fleeing before the Muscovites.

Full details of the defeat of the Russians by the Austro-German forces along the Nida river, from the Vistula southward through the Carpathians, have as yet not come to hand, but Vienna declares the Russians lost in the operations 30,000 men taken prisoners and twenty-two cannon, sixty-four machine guns and a quantity of war materials.

SINK TWO BRITISH BOATS

German Submarines Torpedo Fishing Vessels.

Aberdeen, Scotland, May 5.—The trawler Scottish Queen has been torpedoed and sunk by a submarine, fifty miles off Aberdeen. The crew was landed here.

The rescued men say they were given fifteen minutes to leave their vessel, but subsequently were permitted to return to her and procure provisions.

Seven members of the crew of the trawler Cruiser, of whom four were wounded by the shell fire of a German submarine, have been landed here by a collier. They say that the Cruiser was approaching the harbor with fish when the submarine appeared and opened fire.

One shell struck the trawler's bridge, instantly killing four members of the crew. The survivors assert that the remaining seven hands took to their boat and were rowing away when the submarine fired again, wounding four of the men and causing the boat to capsize. The men thrown into the water were rescued from drowning by the collier.

SAY ENEMY WAS REPULSED

Turks Issue Report on Operations Near Dardanelles.

Constantinople, May 5.—The following statement was issued at the war office here:

"To increase the limited extent of ground he held near Aviturnu the enemy attempted a new advance on his left wing, but as a consequence of our counter attacks he was in the first place driven back with heavy losses into very rocky valleys and afterward repulsed to the coast.

"In the meantime our artillery caused a fire on board one of the transports, after which other transports quickly retired.

"The British warship Agamemnon, which attempted to shell Bulair, was struck by four shells and obliged to retire, being no longer able to fire."

HARD FIGHTING CONTINUES

Russians Admit Austro-Germans Cross Danajec River.

Petrograd, May 5.—An official communication issued admits the Austro-German forces have crossed to the right bank of the Danajec river, in Galicia. It says, however, that desperate fighting continues. The statement continues:

"In Galicia, from the Vistula to the Carpathians, a succession of battles developed May 2 and 3. Enemy detachments succeeded in crossing to the right bank of the Danajec, but our fire prevented them from advancing further than the bank.

"In the course of our counter attacks we took several hundred prisoners."

A Photograph which Shows Serbians are Well Equipped with Artillery

This photograph proves the Serbians are well equipped with artillery for their fight with Austria. These great guns are trained on an Austrian position some miles off. The guns may have been supplied by the French; for they look much like those the French use against the Germans on the western front of the war.

General Pau, aid to General Joffre, has been in Serbia to consult the government about the war, and it is possible the French have as a result supplied the Serbians with the artillery.

By Clineinst.

Washington, May 5.—In view of recent references to Associate Justice Hughes of the supreme court as a candidate for the presidency the following authoritative statement was made with his approval:

"Justice Hughes wholly disapproves the use of his name in connection with the presidential campaign. Not only has he no desire to re-enter politics, but as a member of the supreme court he is not available.

"He is not a candidate in any sense and cannot permit his name to be used."

GULFLIGHT CASE TO CABINET

Wilson Discusses Sinking of Ship With Advisers.

Washington, May 5.—President Wilson discussed with his cabinet the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulflight off the Scilly Islands, but in the absence of a detailed report on the incident no policy was formulated.

Messages received from American Consul Stephens of Plymouth and Consul General Skinner at London add little to the information previously obtained. Both were instructed to get complete statements from members of the ship's crew and to gather such evidence of a technical nature concerning the damage done to the ship as could be learned by an examination of the vessel on its arrival in port.

Officials want to establish beyond doubt whether the vessel was struck by a torpedo or a mine and, if possible, the nationality of the explosive.

GERMANS ENTHUSE OVER SITUATION

(By United Press)

Berlin, May 5.—Germany is thoroughly confident that the effort of the enemies to crush her are in vain, the three fold offensive movement in Flanders, Galicia and Northwest Russia has been successfully prosecuted. The feeling of enthusiasm in military and civilian circles exceeds even the stirring days preceding the war. Flags are flying everywhere the imperial standards of Germany and Austria predominating, with a goodly showing of Turkish crescent. Bands are playing as regiment after regiment pass through the city en route for the front. The training of the troops of the first line men is complete, and the soldiers are moving through Wilhelmstrasse with hats and guns decorated with flowers, while mothers, sisters and sweethearts cling to and encourage the men. Both fronts report offensive just started but surprising gains made, Ypres, the British army base, being encircled and the German fire is soon expected to make it untenable. In Galicia the Germans continue to press back the Russians, and expect soon to receive the announcement that the Russian invasion of Hungary has been abortive.

NEUTRALS WATCH U. S. ATTITUDE

(By United Press)

Washington, May 5.—All neutrals are watching the attitude of the United States following the attack upon her vessels by Germans, and various ministers have called at the state department for information. It is cited that Italy's ships are immune from attack by Germany, and this is believed to be on account of the present delicate situation. It is believed that a note will soon be sent detailing the history of the Kaiser's recent naval activity affecting the United States, and protesting.

(By United Press)

Paris, May 5.—The French war office says that the fighting for the possession of positions dominating Ypres continues, artillery and infantry encounters following each other, both sides being heavily reinforced. DESTROY ENTIRE FISHING FLEET

(By United Press)

London, May 5.—It is admitted that Germany ordered the destruction of the entire North Sea fishing fleet, and a German official statement posted here at the admiralty office says Germany intends to interfere with England's food supply at every possible point, and the sinking of the fishing boats was opportune on account of the fishing being at its best at this time.

(By United Press)

Syracuse, N. Y., May 5.—The defense in the Barnes-Roosevelt libel suit through Chas. MERELY PLAN TO DEFEND PEKING

China Preparing to Resist Invasion of Japanese.

GUARDING WINTER PALACE

Officials Are Making No Military Preparations Elsewhere Than at the Capital, Considering That the Chinese Will Be Unable to Oppose the Japanese Should They Make an Attack.

Peking, May 5.—Military preparations are being made for the defense of Peking.

According to Chinese officials, whose statements have been corroborated in other circles, the government is making no preparations elsewhere than at the capital for defense, considering that the Chinese will be unable to oppose the Japanese should they make an attack.

It is asserted in high quarters that 100,000 troops have been concentrated in the environs of Peking, but with sufficient ammunition for only a brief resistance.

Special police and military precautions have been taken throughout the city, especially around the winter palace, where President Yuan Shi Kai resides. The officials declare they are suspicious that the Japanese may undertake a repetition of the Korean coup d'etat.

The Japanese legation, it is said, notified the Japanese to prepare to leave Peking and that many women and children are preparing to depart. Many of the Japanese men probably will take refuge in the legation headquarters if hostilities break.

The situation is considered awkward for some of the foreign legations, particularly those whose countries sympathize with the Chinese, but none of them could oppose the entry of Japanese into Peking.

Telegrams received here from Mukden say the Japanese bank and post-office there have suspended business, that the Japanese reservists have been called to the colors.

Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, United States minister here, expresses the opinion that the missionaries and other Americans in the interior are in no danger whatever.

HIGH COST OF FIGHTING

War is Taxing Great Britain Over $10,000,000 a Day.

London, May 5.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, announced in the house of commons that the British government had requisitioned the entire supplies of meat from Australia and New Zealand.

The supplies that were not needed for the army, Mr. Runciman added, would be marketed for the benefit of the civil population to prevent such increase in price as would result from a shortage of supplies.

In one of the shortest budget speeches on record, lasting little more than an hour, David Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer, gave the British public further insight into what the war is costing the nation.

The expenditure at present, Mr. Lloyd-George said, was £2,100,000 ($10,500,000) daily, and he added that if the war continued for a year Great Britain's bill would be upward of £1,000,000,000 (about $5,000,000,000). The debt of the country, according to Mr. Lloyd-George, already had been almost doubled and stood well above the $5,000,000,000 mark.

GUARDING WINTER PALACE

Officials Are Making No Military Preparations Elsewhere Than at the Capital, Considering That the Chinese Will Be Unable to Oppose the Japanese Should They Make an

Peking, May 5.—Military preparations are being made for the defense of Peking.

According to Chinese officials, whose statements have been corroborated in other circles, the government is making no preparations elsewhere than at the capital for defense, considering that the Chinese will be unable to oppose the Japanese should they make an attack.

It is asserted in high quarters that coup d'etat.

The Japanese legation, it is said, notified the Japanese to prepare to leave Peking and that many women and children are preparing to depart.
Many of the Japanese men probably will take refuge in the legation headquarters if hostilities break.

The situation is considered awk-

PLEADS FOR PURE WATER SUPPLY

Mayor R. A. Beise's First Communication to New Council Model of Brevity

ASKS ORDINANCES BE CODIFIED
Urges Strict Economy—All His Appointments were Confirmed by the Council

Mayor R. A. Beise's first communication to the council was a model of brevity and concise statement.

DR. R. A. BEISE
Brainerd's New Mayor

The mayor, who in his former position of head of the board of health, is aware of the value of the conservation of health and the prevention of disease, pleaded for a pure water supply.

"If in your entire term of office you accomplish nothing else than that," said Mayor Beise to the council, "I am sure the citizens of Brainerd will be grateful to you forever, and bestow unlimited praise upon you."

The mayor's address and his appointments made, all of which were confirmed, follow:

Brainerd, Minnesota.

May 4th, 1915.

To the Honorable Members of the City Council of the City of Brainerd:

Gentlemen: Although it is not necessary that the mayor of your city should present a communication to you at your first meeting as a body following your election to office, however, I feel that a few words are not amiss. Principally do I want to congratulate you upon your election to such an Honorable and responsible position by your respective constituents and I hope that your duties during your term of office will not prove too trying on your patience and that your decisions will not create unjust criticisms of your acts.

The co-operation between the different departments of the city government should be paramount but it is my impression that the various departments are hampered in their work by conflicting existing ordinances. The enforcement of these ordinances becomes not only expensive or difficult but in some cases even impossible thereby reflecting upon ones sincerity of intention or decision. Therefore I suggest that your first duty be to have an able and energetic committee codify our present ordinances at once, that you then rescind all obsolete ordinances and amend defective and conflicting ones.

You are confronted by a peculiar financial situation. Strict economy is naturally necessary, but do not restrict to the extent that the efficiency of the officials retained will be hampered or that a department will be impaired beyond all usefulness and thereby prove to be a still greater loss to the city in the near future. The duties now performed by several appointees may perhaps be better performed by one competent appointee

LET YOUR RENT MONEY PAY FOR A HOUSE

As an experiment this week, I offer a good 5-room house and two corner lots in good location on North Side, city water, brick cellar, eight-minute walk from shops, for $875. Terms $35 cash as earnest money, then $10 a month like rent for 7 years—then you own the place. You also pay interest, taxes and insurance like an owner. If you are laid off I will extend payments. Come in and talk.

who is familiar with the situation and in this way prove to be a saving to the city.

Anything you may do to promote the general public welfare in the way of having a neater appearing city and a healthier city has my most hearty endorsement. Fitting in with this subject, I wish to urge you to immediately lend every effort toward procuring for Brainerd a pure water supply. If in your entire term of office you accomplish nothing else than that, I am sure the citizens of Brainerd will be grateful to you forever, and bestow unlimited praise upon you.

I now have the pleasure of submitting to you the following appointments which I hope will meet with your approval:

Park board—S. R. Adair, term of office six years.

Board of health—Dr. C. S. Reimstad, term of office six years.

Police department—Henry Squires, chief of police; Ole Anderson, captain; Jens Opsahl, patrolman; Fred C. Shoney, patrolman.

Wishing you success in your efforts,

Respectfully yours,
R. A. BEISE,
Mayor.

GASOLINE TANK EXPLODES

One St. Paul Man Killed and Two Injured.

St. Paul, May 5.—Henry C. Ott, twenty-four years old, was killed in an explosion inside a gasoline tank on the Chicago Great Western railroad tracks below the State street bridge. His body was burned almost to a crisp.

George Meyers, twenty-nine years old, was severely burned about the face and feet in the explosion, and George Whelan, thirty-nine years old, was overcome in attempting to rescue Ott from the tank in which he was working.

The three, all employees of the Chicago Great Western railroad, were engaged in riveting the tank car. Meyers, sitting on the edge of the manhole, reached down into the tank to hand Ott a red hot rivet. There was a roar that was heard for six blocks, a shoot of flame shot twenty-five feet up into the air.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED MAY 29

Womens Relief Corps, Pap Thomas Post, No. 37, Receives Instructions for Observation

50TH ANNIVERSARY IMPORTANT

Arrangements Being Made for Proper Observance of the Day by the Local Organization

The Women's Relief Corps, Pap Thomas Post No. 37, has received General Order No. 6, regarding the observance of Memorial day, from Anna VanCampen, department president, at Cannon Falls. The order, in part, reads as follows:

MEMORIAL DAY

As this is the fiftieth anniversary of some very important events in the history of our nation, it gives us an opportunity for a most impressive demonstration of American patriotism, in honoring those fallen heroes who so nobly sacrificed their lives that we might have liberty and freedom.

How sleep the brave, who sink to rest by all their country's wishes blest! When spring, with dewy fingers cold, Returns to deck their hallowed mould, She there shall dress a sweeter sod Than fancy's feet have ever trod.

The commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic has designated Saturday, May 29 to be observed as Memorial day, the 30th falling on Sunday.

Let us gather around their graves on this sacred day, cover them over with beautiful flowers and bow in reverence as we perform this solemn duty, rendered from the fullness of loving hearts. Let every Army Nurse's grave receive the same loving attention, their sacrifices were second only to those fought on the battlefield.

Where adjacent to streams of water use the beautiful service for those who sleep beneath the waves, and weave choice garlands for the unknown dead who sleeps where no man knows, only God.

Let us provide every comfort for our comrades that they may participate in the exercises of the day, and be not over weary when the day is done.

Make an extra effort to attend divine service with your Post on Memorial Sunday, May 23, and offer up a prayer to God for all the blessings that we enjoy and for which the boys in blue made possible.

In doing these things we shall honor the living comrades and prove to them that we are, without a doubt their strong right arm and that American patriotism will be perpetuated as long as life shall last and shall so impress every American citizen that they shall see and know the sacredness of Memorial day.

A great opportunity presents itself in interesting the children in the meaning of Memorial day, and taking an active part on the program. Teaching them to honor and protect "Old Glory" and love and reverence the name of Abraham Lincoln, and our heroes living and dead.

What is nobler than which places Truth in its enfranchised will, Leaving steps, like angel traces, That mankind may follow still? Even though scorn's malignant glances Prove him poorest of his clan, He's the noble—who advances Freedom and the Cause of Man.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

A few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur brings back its vigor, color, gloss and thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

WOMAN'S REALM

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED MAY 29

Womens Relief Corps, Pap Thomas Post, No. 37, Receives Instructions for Observation

50TH ANNIVERSARY IMPORTANT

Arrangements Being Made for Proper Observance of the Day by the Local Organization

The Women's Relief Corps, Pap Thomas Post No. 37, has received General Order No. 6, regarding the observance of Memorial day, from Anna VanCampen, department president, at Cannon Falls. The order, in part, reads as follows:

MEMORIAL DAY

As this is the fiftieth anniversary of some very important events in the history of our nation, it gives us an opportunity for a most impressive demonstration of American patriotism, in honoring those fallen heroes who so nobly sacrificed their lives that we might have liberty and freedom.

How sleep the brave, who sink to rest By all their country's wishes blest! When spring, with dewy fingers cold Returns to deck their hallow'd mould, She there shall dress a sweeter sod Than fancy's feet have ever trod.

The commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic has designated Saturday, May 29 to be observed as Memorial day, the 30th falling on Sunday.

Let us gather around their graves on this sacred day, cover them over with beautiful flowers and bow in reverence as we perform this solemn duty, rendered from the fullness of loving hearts. Let every Army Nurse's grave receive the same loving attention, their sacrifices were second only to those fought on the battlefield.

Where adjacent to streams of water use the beautiful service for those who sleep beneath the waves, and weave choice garlands for the unknown dead who sleeps where no man knows, only God.

Let us provide every comfort for our comrades that they may participate in the exercises of the day, and be not over weary when the day is done.

Make an extra effort to attend divine service with your Post on Memorial Sunday, May 23, and offer up a prayer to God for all the blessings that we enjoy and for which the boys in blue made possible.

In doing these things we shall honor the living comrades and prove to them that we are, without a doubt their strong right arm and that American patriotism will be perpetuated as long as life shall last and shall so impress every American citizen that they shall see and know the sacredness of Memorial day.

A great opportunity presents itself in interesting the children in the meaning of Memorial day, and taking an active part on the program. Teaching them to honor and protect "Old Glory" and love and reverence the name of Abraham Lincoln, and our heroes living and dead.

What is noble? that which places Truth in its enfranchised will. Leaving steps, like angel traces. That mankind may follow still! Even though scorn's malignant glances Prove him poorest of his clan. He's the noble—who advances Freedom and the Cause of Man.

By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

OUR NEWS SERVICE

The Dispatch is furnishing its readers, six solid columns of matter supplied by the American Press, featuring the latest war news and appearing simultaneously with the larger city dailies, and in addition from two to three columns of telegraph service from the United Press Association which gives the latest telegraph news from the war zone. These news features are given daily in order that the readers of The Dispatch may be supplied with the great demand for news from the European centers, and also the Mexican struggle. The general world happenings are also recorded in these columns, briefly, and at as early an hour as are given to the public by the great newspapers of the country. The news columns of the Dispatch cover all important events up to 3 o'clock every day except Sundays.

In addition to the telegraph service the United Press furnishes The Dispatch a series of letters from correspondents who are especially sent to the war zone and who write interestingly of their personal experiences and of the conditions as they find them there. Among these are the letters from William Philip Simms, whose articles are all copyrighted, and which are released for publication in The Dispatch at the same time as they are in the papers of all the cities, as are also the special articles by Wm. G. Shepherd, and "What War Moves Mean," by W. J. T. Mason, another correspondent of the United Press, are also published in this paper simultaneously with the papers of the Twin Cities and other parts of the country. These are some of the features The Dispatch gets with its United Press franchise. Other interesting articles will be published from time to time.

In addition to this service The Dispatch has secured at some expense Murray's Illustrated News Service, and each day news matter in matrix form is received. These matrices contain the illustrations from the field of battle in Europe as well as of all the important events in this country, base ball illustration, the people in the public eye and many subjects too numerous to mention. The illustrations featured on the front pages of The Dispatch, on the women's page and on the page devoted to baseball and sports are all made in The Dispatch office from the matrices received from this service.

This additional service has been inaugurated because the publishers believe the readers of The Dispatch are entitled to the best service that the paper can afford, and especially at a time when news is so eagerly sought.

NEW ADMINISTRATION

The start out of the new city administration is being watched with interest by the people of Brainerd, and the Dispatch believes that the city in general will have no reason to complain of the officers they have elected, judging from the start made last night at the first meeting of the new city council, which has every appearance of being a business like body.

Mayor Beise has made some very excellent appointments, and he is to be commended for his good judgment in selecting men for the various positions under his control who give evidence of being efficient and thoroughly capable. The selection of P. W. Donovan for a position on the Water and Light board is in accordance with Mayor Beise's plan laid down, to select the best men obtainable regardless of other conditions. The people of Brainerd will with one accord commend this appointment.

The selection of H. Squires for chief of police and the other members of the police force are believed to be in line with the general order of things, to give the city good police protection.

In fact only good words have been heard regarding the appointments so far made and which were confirmed by the council, and it is expected that the mayor's official family will give a good account of themselves.

Although inclined to return the unearned portion of the license money to the liquor dealers at Bemidji, where the saloons were closed by an order of the department because they were in the Indian territory affected by the treaty of 1855, the city council is not permitted to do so under the law. The city attorney explained to the council, and his opinion was backed by a letter from the attorney general of the state, that the city had no authority to pay back the money as the law covering the return of unearned license money to saloon keepers in towns that vote dry does not cover in the instance of Indian treaties like that of 1855. An attempt was made to get a bill through the legislature permitting the return of the unearned license money, but it failed.

Rev. David Morgan, a St. Paul Methodist minister, says he does not believe the Jonah and the whale story and thinks it was added to the scriptures by a later writer for spectacular and dramatic effect.

Three counties went dry at Tuesday's elections, Chicago, Isanti and Lac qui Parle; the average vote of two to one prevailing. Lincoln county will vote May 24 on the proposition.

Minneapolis liquor dealers blame the decline in their business to the moving picture shows and the increasing automobile interest.

LINCOLN IN FAVOR OF HIGHER WAGES

Pullman Company Director Says System Is Wrong.

Washington, May 5.—Robert T. Lincoln, chairman of the board of directors of the Pullman company, frankly told the United States commission on industrial relations here that he believed the system of paying sleeping car porters should be changed and that wages of Pullman car conductors should be increased.

Both of these subjects, he said, will be taken up by the company's directors in the near future.

The son of President Lincoln insisted, however, that employment afforded the negro by the Pullman company has been one of the most uplifting opportunities the race has had.

In 1912, Mr. Lincoln said, the pay of Pullman conductors was raised to $70 a month for the first six months. Salaries of conductors on special trains, he said, are $100 a month. The average, he thought, should be increased.

European Struggle will Last Long Time

With the French army at the front, April 16, by mail to New York. After passing along the front from Belgium to Alsace and talking with officers, high and low, one is impressed with the prevailing idea that the war has only begun.

"How long will the war last?" I asked the officer of very high rank. "A long time," he answered in a way showing that he had studied the question and the reply. "A long time unless some unexpected event brings it to an end."

"What sort of an event?" "I said unexpected. If we knew what sort of an event to expect it would not be unexpected. The idea is the war came on us over-night so to speak. It was unexpected as far as the Allies were concerned. Well, the war might end over-night, just as it began."

That is the state of mind of the French army. The officers expect a long war and the men see no hope of early peace. And both officers and men appear not the least cast down over it.

A great change has come over the French army. When the war began many doubts were expressed over France's ability to cope with Germany. It was pointed out that Germany was ready, while France had been following the pursuits of peace.

"Goodbye, good luck and an early victory," their friends called to the soldiers as they marched away. Some of them replied with an implied doubt, "We'll do our best."

Then too the shadow of 1870 hung heavily. Being extraordinarily intelligent, the French soldiers remembered that in '70 they were badly led and quickly beaten. They felt that man for man they could beat the Germans, but there was the wonderful German fighting machine and the doubt as to French leaders. But the spirit of doubt long since has disappeared. One finds it now impossible to discover a doubtful Thomas. The men have every confidence in the ability of their officers to lead them.

General Joffre is a sort of God or at least a superman to them. They have confidence in themselves which is equally important. Their fear of the irresistible German fighting machine was dissipated at the Marne and on the road to Calais. They point out that the Germans have had their day and have failed.

So the French soldier in the trenches feels that he, himself, is as good a soldier as anybody; he feels that he is as well led, he knows that the German army has failed in its general plans, proving it is not the all powerful organization he first feared it was. So well fed and content the French soldier here on the front is a great fighting man.

He has succeeded in completely reorganizing his life. He has gotten out of his domestic rut. He has become hardened to his new life and when he writes home to his women folks he tells them to be patient, he comforts them and scolds them for writing letters that are blue.

The officers are the same as the men. One finds them smiling and confident, fraternizing with their men, as perhaps no other officers in the world do with theirs. Yet the men never take advantage of this fact. If an officer speaks a word of disapproval to one of his men, this word seems to hurt worse than a blow. And the next day if a dangerous task is to be performed this is the man who first volunteers.

This is the temper of the men as they face this bloody spring campaign. To the mind of a newspaper man who has no knowledge of military affairs, they are far and away in better shape than at the beginning of the war and, to a man, grimly determined to fetch home a victory to themselves. All know there is to be some grim fighting over the flowery fields of northern France this spring.

With the French Army, April 14, by mail to New York, April 30.—The French flying corps is more than anything else the "eyes of the army." With the enormous front which the French have taken upon themselves to guard, their task would be almost impossible were it not for the aeroplane and the aviators. Just as in everything else in this war, the aeroplane has been something of a surprise. When war was declared you doubtless pictured in your mind, a fleet of a thousand aeroplanes charging down air lanes against thousands of hostile machines. You probably pictured titanic battles in the air, between Zeppelins and Clement Bayards, between Parsevals and Bleriot. You expected to be thrilled probably by hair-raising stories of the exploits of the aviators.

The trouble with that all is that the aviators are working away in the air just like you work in the office, the store or on the farm. The aviator has many duties to perform, but the least important of them is to attack the enemy. Map making is perhaps his most important function.

Just step inside the general's office—this war you know is being run from offices just as a factory is—and you will see in a minute how it is all done. On the general's desk, a regular desk, like a broker uses you see a pile of photographs. These were made by aviators using special cameras and were enlarged. You see why lines running hither and yon across the pictures. Other lines are zigzaggy. Some start nowhere, while some go squirming completely across the paper. Now look on the wall. There you see the same map on a large scale. Every tree, river, highway, brook, hill, bridge or highway is clearly shown there. But the zigzaggy lines are not.

They have been made since the big map was prepared a year ago. They are the hostile forces or German works of some sort. If the exact nature of the works cannot be made out, the chief of the aviation corps assigns one of his aviators to investigate. He goes out, makes an observation and another picture. Other aviators check on him. Next day and then at regular intervals, other pictures are made. They are enlarged and compared. The little line that started apparently nowhere has grown in length. It has turned in the direction of other white lines, which the officers know are French trenches. The general in command makes his plans accordingly. He has exact information now and can order an attack knowing what to expect. Aided by the photographs a corps of draughtsmen are kept busy at various corps and army headquarters making ground plans showing every trench built or under construction, by the enemy, as well as their own. There plans are drawn to exact scale and are kept strictly up to date by the hard working plodding aviators.

Of course, the aviators do other things, like dropping bombs on ammunition depots, or convoys, or army headquarters and occasionally they engage in a duel among the clouds, but it does not require a military expert to realize how much more important his more prosaic picture taking and map making work really is.

The pictures many times give information which the enemy is doing his best to keep secret. The photographs of a number of villages are made for instance and in one of them in particular there are signs of considerably more activity than usual. Other photographs of the same village are made, in reality almost moving pictures with the intervals hours instead of seconds, and by the snapshots it is learned troops are either arriving or departing, that many convoys are arriving there, that reserve troops or the like are arriving, that the village is becoming a troop center.

The picture idea had to be adopted because an aeroplane must fly some 2,500 yards in the air to be comparatively safe and at that height the eye cannot take in details. An aviator might fly many times over a village and not catch the secrets the camera divulges with its microscopic reflecting lens.

European Struggle will Last Long Time

With the French army at the front, April 16, by mail to New York. After passing along the front from Belgium to Alsace and talking with officers, high and low, one is impressed with the prevailing idea that the war has only begun.

"How long will the war last?" I asked the officer of very high rank. "A long time," he answered in a way showing that he had studied the question and the reply. "A long time unless some unexpected event brings it to an end."

"What sort of an event?" "I said unexpected. If we knew what sort of an event to expect it would not be unexpected. The idea is the war came on us over-night so to speak. It was unexpected as far as the Allies were concerned. Well, the war might end over-night, just as it began."

That is the state of mind of the French army. The officers expect a long war and the men see no hope of early peace. And both officers and men appear not the least cast down over it.

A great change has come over the French army. When the war began many doubts were expressed over France's ability to cope with Germany. It was pointed out that Germany was ready, while France had been following the pursuits of peace.

"Goodbye, good luck and an early victory," their friends called to the soldiers as they marched away. Some of them replied with an implied doubt, "We'll do our best."

Then too the shadow of 1870 hung heavily. Being extraordinarily intelligent, the French soldiers remembered that in '70 they were badly led and quickly beaten. They felt that man for man they could beat the Germans, but there was the wonderful German fighting machine and the doubt as to French leaders. But the spirit of doubt long since has disappeared. One finds it now impossible to discover a doubtful Thomas. The men have every confidence in the ability of their officers to lead them. General Joffre is a sort of God or at least a superman to them. They have confidence in themselves which is equally important. Their fear of the irresistible German fighting machine was dissipated at the Marne and on the road to Calais. They point out that the Germans have had their day and have failed.

So the French soldier in the trenches feels that he, himself, is as good a soldier as anybody; he feels that he is as well led, he knows that the German army has failed in its general plans, proving it is not the all powerful organization he first feared it was. So well fed and content the French soldier here on the front is a great fighting man.

He has succeeded in completely reorganizing his life. He has gotten out of his domestic rut. He has become hardened to his new life and when he writes home to his women folks he tells them to be patient, he comforts them and scolds them for writing letters that are blue.

The officers are the same as the men. One finds them smiling and confident, fraternizing with their men, as perhaps no other officers in the world do with theirs. Yet the men never take advantage of this fact. If an officer speaks a word of disapproval to one of his men, this word seems to hurt worse than a blow. And the next day if a dangerous task is to be performed this is the man who first volunteers.

This is the temper of the men as they face this bloody spring campaign. To the mind of a newspaper man who has no knowledge of military affairs, they are far and away in better shape than at the beginning of the war and, to a man, grimly determined to fetch home a victory to themselves. All know there is to be some grim fighting over the flowery fields of northern France this spring.

With the French Army, April 14, by mail to New York. After the French flying corps is more than anything else the "eyes of the army." With the enormous front which the French have taken unto themselves to guard, their task would be almost impossible were it not for the aeroplane and the aviators. Just as in everything else in this war, the aeroplane has been something of a surprise. When war was declared you doubtless pictured in your mind, a fleet of a thousand aeroplanes charging down air lanes against thousands of hostile machines. You probably pictured titanic battles in the air, between Zeppelins and Clement Bayards, between Parsevals and Bleriot's. You expected to be thrilled probably by hair-raising stories of the exploits of the aviators.

The trouble with that all is that the aviators are working away in the air just like you work in the office, the store or on the farm. The aviator has many duties to perform, but the least important of them is to attack the enemy. Map making is perhaps his most important function.

Just step inside the general's office—this war you know is being run from offices just as a factory is—and you will see in a minute how it is all done. On the general's desk, a regular desk, like a broker uses you see a pile of photographs. These were made by aviators using special cameras and were enlarged. You see why lines running hither and yon across the pictures. Other lines are zigzaggy. Some start nowhere, while some go squirming completely across the paper. Now look on the wall. There you see the same map on a large scale. Every tree, river, highway, brook, hill, bridge or highway is clearly shown there. But the zigzaggy lines are not.

They have been made since the big map was prepared a year ago. They are the hostile forces or German works of some sort. If the exact nature of the works cannot be made out, the chief of the aviation corps assigns one of his aviators to investigate. He goes out, makes an observation and another picture. Other aviators check on him. Next day and then at regular intervals, other pictures are made. They are enlarged and compared. The little line that started apparently nowhere has grown in length. It has turned in the direction of other white lines, which the officers know are French trenches. The general in command makes his plans accordingly. He has exact information now and can order an attack knowing what to expect. Aided by the photographs a corps of draughtsmen are kept busy at various corps and army headquarters making ground plans showing every trench built or under construction, by the enemy, as well as their own. There plans are drawn to exact scale and are kept strictly up to date by the hard working plodding aviators.

Of course, the aviators do other things, like dropping bombs on ammunition depots, or convoys, or army headquarters and occasionally they engage in a duel among the clouds, but it does not require a military expert to realize how much more important his more prosaic picture taking and map making work really is.

The pictures many times give information which the enemy is doing his best to keep secret. The photographs of a number of villages are made for instance and in one of them in particular there are signs of considerably more activity than usual. Other photographs of the same village are made, in reality almost moving pictures with the intervals hours instead of seconds, and by the snapshots it is learned troops are either arriving or departing, that many convoys are arriving there, that reserve troops or the like are arriving, that the village is becoming a troop center.

The picture idea had to be adopted because an aeroplane must fly some 2,500 yards in the air to be comparatively safe and at that height the eye cannot take in details. An aviator might fly many times over a village and not catch the secrets the camera divulges with its microscopic reflecting lens.

ANTON MAHLUM IS CITY CLERK

D. A. Haggard Elected City Attorney,
C. D. Peacock City Engineer,
H. McGinn Fire Chief

The new city council had its first meeting Tuesday evening. The council chambers of the new city hall were filled with citizens interested in the work of the new members.

Officers Elected by Council

President of Council—F. A. Farrar.
Vice President of Council—Iver Benson.
City Clerk—Anton Mahlum.
City Attorney—D. A. Haggard.
City Engineer—C. D. Peacock.
Fire Chief—H. McGinn.
Motor Fire Truck Drivers—James Buley and J. R. Mutch.
Weighmaster—Otto Reinhardt.

F. A. FARRAR
President of City Council

Seated at the table were Aldermen Fremont Turcotte and Clarence H. Smith of the first ward, Aldermen F. A. Farrar and Fred M. Koop of the second ward, Aldermen C. E. Haake and N. W. Betzold of the third ward, Aldermen Andrew Anderson and Peter Peterson of the fourth ward, Aldermen M. E. Morrison and Iver Benson of the fifth ward.

The first business, after the roll was called by City Clerk Mahlum, was the election of a president, a presiding officer. Alderman Benson nominated F. A. Farrar and the latter was the unanimous choice of the council.

Alderman Benson was unanimously elected vice president.

President Farrar called for the reading of the applications for city clerk. There were on file those of Wesley E. Small, Roland G. Jenkins, and Henry Clark. Mr. Mahlum made a verbal application.

The informal ballot stood: Mahlum 6, Clark 3, Jenkins 1.

The formal ballot was: Mahlum 7, Clark 2, Jenkins 1. Anton Mahlum was declared elected city clerk.

For city attorney there were five applications, W. H. Crowell, Walter F. Wieland, W. W. Bane, D. A. Haggard and Hilding A. Swanson.

The informal ballot gave: Haggard 7, Wieland 2, Swanson 1.

The formal ballot gave: Haggard 7, Wieland 3.

For city engineer there was but one application, verbally made by the incumbent, C. D. Peacock.

A formal ballot gave Mr. Peacock 9 votes and Louis Knudsen 1. Mr. Peacock was declared elected.

In speaking of work for the city engineer, Alderman Betzold said enough had been planned ahead by the old council to keep the city engineer busy six or eight weeks longer.

Alderman Benson wished to know how the finances of the city stood before hiring anybody.

For fire chief there was but one application, that of H. McGinn.

A formal ballot was taken and Mr. McGinn polled all 19 votes.

The question of a janitor was taken up. In the interests of economy City Clerk Mahlum suggested that he would keep clean his department and during the summer months this might be carried out. No action was taken.

President Farrar called for the reading of the applications and nine were on file: Wm. Bourquin, Andrew P. Nelson, Fred Parks, Albert Zahn, W. R. Miller, Henry Hurley, L. A. Grant, Julius Voss and Walter H. Wood.

Action was deferred to a later meeting.

The mayor's message was read and all appointments made by Mayor Beise were confirmed.

Alderman Turcotte urged the appointment of a sanitary policeman. Alderman Betzold said the appointment of such police had been laid over by the old council to be taken up by the new.

Action on the appointment was deferred to the next meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting of the old council were read.

The election of a street commissioner was deferred to the next meeting. James Buley and John R. Mutch were re-elected drivers of the fire department. Instead of handling horses they will now guide the new motor fire truck.

Otto Reinhardt was unanimously re-elected weighmaster.

Mayor R. A. Beise submitted correspondence relating to the institution of a "Clean Up Week."

Carl Zapfe, chairman of the Public Affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, in his communication to the council, said:

"The Public Affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, at the orders of the Chamber itself, begs leave to present to you this communication which is with reference to Clean Up Day! Thursday, May 6th, has been proclaimed Clean Up Day by Governor Hammond, and the retiring council and mayor of Brainerd have done likewise.

Unfortunately the peculiar prevailing but temporary local conditions do not make for an auspicious Clean Up Day for Brainerd this year. We contemplated at first that the Chamber itself engage teams and do some of the work on that day in order to inspire others to clean up their premises, but we find the condition of the streets and alleys so deplorable that only a concerted effort and an actual performance by all citizens can materially affect the appearance of Brainerd in one day, especially true is this since the street department of the city is not now doing any work whatever nor likely to be doing anything soon enough to be effective by or on May 6th.

Since so many people are concerned in this matter, since so much of the rubbish, debris, and filth is the property of individuals who have willfully or ignorantly permitted the material to accumulate in places where it now forms a menace to the convenience and health of the public in general, and since your honorable body may not be organized to such an extent to enable it to fully consider this matter in all its details, we beg to suggest that in addition to anything else that you may order done on that day or succeeding days that especially members of the police department be used for a period of time, not alone one day, for inspecting the entire city and enforcing all laws pertaining, that inspections be made by the building inspector, fire chief, and health officer, and by the enforcement of present ordinances the burden and cost of at least a part of the Clean Up be thereby placed on the offenders and violators of the ordinances of the city.

A duplicate copy of this communication is also being sent His Honor, the Mayor."

Mayor Beise, in his communication to the council, said:

"In accordance with the attached request, I herewith declare the week beginning May the 10th, as "Clean Up Week," and to assist in this matter I would ask your Honorable Body to appoint at your meeting tonight if possible, a sanitary police and by way of suggestion this sanitary police could at the same time check up the dog taxes and the wheelage taxes and also pay some attention to the traffic regulations.

I have instructed our regular policemen to assist in the matter of sanitary police, duties especially in the down town streets and alleys.

I also hope that your Honorable Body can see their way clear to put the street force to work at once toward cleaning up our streets and alleys."

Reports from the water and light board were read and placed on file.

The request for a band concert engagement, made by Joseph Salnton, of Minneapolis, director of the Minneapolis Municipal band, was placed on file.

The election of a street commissioner was deferred.

A petition to pave Grove street was laid over until the proper committees were appointed by President Farrar.

The half mill tax for the municipal entertainment fund resulted in the collection of $192.70, received from the March settlement. Action on transferring same to the band was laid over to the next meeting.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of district sewer 3 in Southeast Brainerd.

The city attorney and city engineer were instructed to obtain the right of way for C 1, district No. 3, and lateral B-3, districts 4 and 7, on Fifth street.

The council inquired about the bonds on city officers, the designation of depositories and city printing. No action was taken. The matters to be taken up at later meetings.

Alderman Betzold pleaded for calling meetings at stated times, and that work should commence promptly.

Alderman Haake asked that meetings generally close at 10:30 p. m. Sewer matters were spoken of, especially in Southeast and Northeast Brainerd.

By order of the council copies of the state examiner's report on city books were left at the city clerk's office and the water and light board offices. All interested may procure copies there.

Alderman Turcotte referred to the city fire team, standing idle in the barn and costing the city good money to be fed. He urged that a driver be hired and the team given work on city jobs. Motion carried to put the team to work.

The council adjourned to Thursday evening, May 6. At that time President Farrar will announce his committee appointments.

Captain Ole Anderson goes on duty this evening, with Patrolman Fred Cheney.

Chief Squires was night captain under Mayor H. P. Dunn. Patrolman Opsahl is a brother of City Treasurer A. M. Opsahl. Capt. Anderson was a patrolman in East Brainerd under former Mayor Dunn. Fred Cheney is a pipe fitter by trade and has done much work for the city, being now engaged in laying cement walks around the city hall.

CORONER'S JURY AT MENZ INQUEST

Gave Verdict that Wife Came to Her Death by Gunshot Wound From Revolver in His Hands

THE WIFE WAS FIRST TO DIE

Testimony of the Witnesses Summoned at the Inquest Held on Tuesday Afternoon

Verdict of Coroner's Jury

The jury's verdict was to the effect that Mrs. Gustave Menz came to her death from a gunshot wound of a revolver held in the hand of Gustave Menz. That Gustave Menz came to his death by a gunshot wound of a revolver held in his own hand.

The coroner's inquest, held at the D. M. Clark & Co. morgue on Tuesday afternoon decided that Gustave Menz had killed his wife and that Mr. Menz had committed suicide.

The examination was conducted by Attorney Mal D. Clark. The members of the coroner's jury were T. J. Lee, Andrew Berglund, M. L. Hostager, Fred Drexler, Archie Purdy and C. Hougstad.

The Autopsy

An autopsy was held shortly after by Drs. R. A. Beise, C. S. Reimstad and D. E. Nelson. The deductions there made were to the effect that Mrs. Gustave Menz died first.

There were five bullet wounds in the head of Mrs. Menz. One of them fractured two vertebrae in her neck and went through the base of the brain. Another bullet went through the back of her head and into the brain. Either would have caused instant death. Four bullets lodged in her head. One made a scalp wound.

Menz shot himself through the right temple, the bullet passing through his head, causing instant death.

Of importance was the autopsy and its results, for it determined the succession regarding the inheritance of the several estates.

Deaths Affect Inheritance

Had Mrs. Menz died after Mr. Menz she would have inherited her third share of the property and upon her death the same would have descended to her daughter.

She died first and Gustave Menz inherits from his wife his share and such share descends to his children.

Mrs. Floyd Smith, daughter of Mrs. Menz, will inherit two-thirds of her mother's estate, the other third going to the heirs of Gustave Menz. She held considerable stock in western mining and oil companies and had money in the bank. Some of this property is in the name of her first husband, Mr. Hammer, and was never probated, it is said. She was about 48 years old. Her daughter lives in Centralia, Wash., and mother in Michigan.

Mr. Menz's first wife died in January, 1914. On December 2 he was married to Mrs. Katherine Hammer, a widow, whose acquaintance he had gained in a matrimonial advertisement and who was reputed to be worth $18,000. She left him on February 9 and refused to live with him any more. She started divorce proceedings and the case was on the calendar to be heard at this term of court.

Emily Anderson's Testimony
The first witness called at the inquest was Miss Emily Anderson, of 1411 Oak street. It was at the home of herself and sisters that Mrs. Menz was employed as a housekeeper.

Miss Anderson said she was ironing in the kitchen Monday afternoon. Mrs. Menz was in the dining room washing dishes and standing near the pantry.

Mr. Menz walked in without knocking. It was then about ten minutes to two. Mr. Menz asked Mrs. Menz to return and live with him.

"No, never," said Mrs. Menz.

"Then you don't want your money?" asked Mr. Menz. This had reference to the $25 allowance the court had decreed Mr. Menz should pay his wife monthly during the pendency of the divorce case.

"Yes, I want the money," said Mrs. Menz.

They talked two or three minutes and Miss Anderson thought nothing out of the ordinary was happening.

Both were standing. He walked towards her and had a receipt book in his hand which was the same receipt book he had used when he paid her allowance money previously.

As he walked to her he pulled something out of his pocket which Miss Anderson saw glisten and thought it was a revolver.

Menz looked at Miss Anderson and stared at her. She became frightened and ran out.

Heard the Shots

As soon as Miss Anderson was outside the kitchen she heard a shot. She ran to the K. S. Bredenberg residence one door east, No. 1421 Oak street. Twenty feet from her own home, Miss Anderson heard the second shot. Before she could run to and reach the Bredenberg home she heard the third shot.

W. E. Erickson's Testimony

W. E. Erickson, of the firm of Bredenberg & Erickson, said he was called to the phone by Mrs. K. S. Bredenberg, wife of his partner. She said: "Somebody is shot."

Walter F. Kunitz was in the store at the time and ran down Oak street with Mr. Erickson.

At Oak and Fourteenth streets they met Chris Mathison. All three ran to 1411 Oak street. Mr. Erickson heard a shot as he reached the sidewalk in front of the house. When he entered the room he found both Mr. and Mrs. Menz dead.

Chris Mathison's Story

Chris Mathison was the first to enter the chamber of death. The bodies lay in the pantry. She was on her knees with face towards the south wall. Her hair and clothing had caught on a nail of the shelves. The pantry measured two by four feet. Menz was in a leaning position with head against the wall. The revolver was lying between them.

Shells on Floor

Five empty, used shells were found on the floor. Deputy Sheriff John A. Gile took possession of the gun, said to be one of 32 caliber. The inquest showed the revolver had been reloaded and one shot discharged from it. Four shells remained in the revolver.

Brooding Over the Matter

Arhart Menz, a son of Mr. Menz, said his father had brooded over the divorce suit. He had eaten his dinner at home and left his home on Bluff avenue north shortly after 1 o'clock. In his pocketbook, examined after Mr. Menz's death, was found $38.42, which indicated that he had taken with him sufficient money to pay his wife's allowance.

Children of Mr. Menz

Mr. Menz is survived by nine children. All of these will be present at the funeral except Gunther Menz, of Glasgow, Mont. The children are Arhart Menz, of Brainerd, aged 31; Mrs. Matha Engisch, of Brainerd, aged 36; Herman Menz, of Brainerd, aged 26; William Menz, of Minneapolis, aged 28; Miss Lena Menz, of Brainerd, aged 19; Gustave Menz, Jr., of Brainerd, aged 15; Mrs. Kate Mack, of Brainerd, aged 24; Mrs. Ella Mack, of Minneapolis, aged 22; Gunther Menz, of Glasgow, Mont., aged 34.

The Funeral

The funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the Presbyterian church, Rev. W. J. Lowrie officiating.

Lodge Affiliations

Mr. Menz was a member of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, belonging to Homestead No. 602. His membership in the Sons of Herman had lapsed. He was about 56 years old, was born in Germany and came to the United States in 1880. He was of an industrious, saving nature and had amassed a competence said to be from $15,000 to $20,000, owning considerable farm land in the county and real estate in the city.

The informal ballot stood: Mahlum 6, Clark 3, Jenkins 1.

The formal ballot was: Mahlum 7, Clark 2, Jenkins 1. Anton Mahlum was declared elected city clerk.

For city attorney there were five applications, (W. H. Crowell, Walter F. Wieland, W. W. Bane, D. A. Haggard and Hilding A. Swanson.

The informal ballot gave: Haggard 7, Wieland 2, Swanson 1.

The formal ballot gave: Haggard 7, Wieland 2.

For city engineer there was but one application, verbally made by the incumbent, C. D. Peacock.

A formal ballot gave Mr. Peacock 9 votes and Louis Knudsen 1. Mr. Peacock was declared elected.

In speaking of work for the city engineer, Alderman Betzold said enough had been planned ahead by the old council to keep the city engineer busy six or eight weeks longer.

Alderman Benson wished to know how the finances of the city stood before hiring anybody.

For fire chief there was but one application, that of H. McGinn.

A formal ballot was taken and Mr. McGinn polled all 19 votes.

The question of a janitor was taken up. In the interests of economy City Clerk Mahlum suggested that he would keep clean his department and during the summer months this might be carried out. No action was taken.

President Farrar called for the reading of the applications and nine were on file: Wm. Bourquin, Andrew P. Nelson, Fred Parks, Albert Zahn, W. R. Miller, Henry Hurley, L. A. Graff, Julius Voss and Walter H. Wood.

Action was deferred to a later meeting.

The mayor's message was read and all appointments made by Mayor Beise were confirmed.

Alderman Turcotte urged the appointment of a sanitary policeman. Alderman Betzold said the appointment of such police had been laid over by the old council to be taken up by the new.

Action on the appointment was deferred to the next meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting of the old council were read.

Th election of a street commissioner was deferred to the next meeting. James Buley and John R. Mutch were re-elected drivers of the fire department. Instead of handling horses they will now guide the new motor fire truck.

Otto Reinhardt was unanimously re-elected weighmaster.

Mayor R. A. Beise submitted correspondence relating to the institution of a "Clean Up Week."

Carl Zapffe, chairman of the Public Affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, in his communication to the council, said:

"The Public Affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, at the orders of the Chamber itself, begs leave to present to you this communication which is with reference to Clean Up Day! Thursday, May 6th, has been proclaimed Clean Up Day by Governor Hammond, and the retiring council and mayor of Brainerd have done likewise.

Unfortunately the peculiar prevailing but temporary local conditions do not make for an auspicious Clean Up Day for Brainerd this year. We contemplated at first that the Chamber itself engage teams and do some of the work on that day in order to inspire others to clean up their premises, but we find the condition of the streets and alleys so deplorable that only a concerted effort and an actual performance by all citizens can materially affect the appearance of Brainerd in one day, especially true is this since the street department of the city is not now doing any work whatever nor likely to be doing anything soon enough to be effective by or on May 6th.

Since so many people are concerned in this matter, since so much of the rubbish, debris, and filth is the property of individuals who have willfully or ignorantly permitted the material to accumulate in places where it now forms a menace to the convenience and health of the public in general, and since your honorable body may not be organized to such an extent to enable it to fully consider this matter in all its details, we beg to suggest that in addition to anything else that you may order done on that day or succeeding days that especially members of the police department be used for a period of time, not alone one day, for inspecting the entire city and enforcing all laws pertaining, that inspections be made by the building inspector, fire chief, and health officer, and by the enforcement of present ordinances the burden and cost of at least a part of the Clean Up be thereby placed on the offenders and violators of the ordinances of the city.

A duplicate copy of this communication is also being sent His Honor, the Mayor."

Mayor Beise, in his communication to the council, said:

"In accordance with the attached request, I herewith declare the week beginning May the 10th., as "Clean Up Week," and to assist in this matter I would ask your Honorable Body to appoint at your meeting tonight if possible, a sanitary police and by way of suggestion this sanitary police could at the same time check up the dog taxes and the wheelage taxes and also pay some attention to the traffic regulations.

I have instructed our regular policemen to assist in the matter of sanitary police, duties especially in the down town streets and alleys.

I also hope that your Honorable Body can see their way clear to put the street force to work at once toward cleaning up our streets and alleys."

Reports from the water and light board were read and placed on file.

The request for a band concert engagement, made by Joseph Salntoni, of Minneapolis, director of the Minneapolis Municipal band, was placed on file.

The election of a street commissioner was deferred.

A petition to pave Grove street was laid over until the proper committees were appointed by President Farrar.

The half mill tax for the municipal entertainment fund resulted in the collection of $192. 70, received from the March settlement. Action on transferring same to the band was laid over to the next meeting.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of district sewer 3 in Southeast Brainerd.

The city attorney and city engineer were instructed to obtain the right of way for C 1, district No. 3, and lateral B-3, districts 4 and 7, on Fifth street.

The council inquired about the bonds on city officers, the designation of depositories and city printing. No action was taken. The matters to be taken up at later meetings.

Alderman Betzold pleaded for calling meetings at stated times, and that work should commence promptly.

Alderman Haake asked that meetings generally close at 10:30 p. m. Sewer matters were spoken of, especially in Southeast and Northeast Brainerd.

By order of the council copies of the state examiner's report on city books were left at the city clerk's office and the water and light board offices. All interested may procure copies there.

Alderman Turcotte referred to the city fire team, standing idle in the barn and costing the city good money to be fed. He urged that a driver be hired and the team given work on city jobs. Motion carried to put the team to work.

The council adjourned to Thursday evening, May 6. At that time President Farrar will announce his committee appointments.

Captain Ole Anderson Will Be on Duty Tonight

The new police chief, Henry Squires, assumed duty this morning. He will be on days and with him will be Patrolman Jens Opsahl.

Captain Ole Anderson goes on duty this evening, with Patrolman Fred Cheney.

Chief Squires was night captain under Mayor H. P. Dunn. Patrolman Opsahl is a brother of City Treasurer A. M. Opsahl. Capt. Anderson was a patrolman in East Brainerd under former Mayor Dunn. Fred Cheney is a pipe fitter by trade and has done much work for the city, being now engaged in laying cement walks around the city hall.

The force, as a whole, is a good, husky one, gifted with even tempers and one which is expected to give a good account of itself.

CORONER'S JURY AT MENZ INQUEST

Gave Verdict that Wife Came to Her Death by Gunshot Wound
From Revolver in His Hands

THE WIFE WAS FIRST TO DIE

Testimony of the Witnesses Summoned at the Inquest Held on Tuesday Afternoon

Verdict of Coroner's Jury

The jury's verdict was to the effect that Mrs. Gustave Menz came to her death from a gunshot wound of a revolver held in the hand of Gustave Menz; That Gustave Menz came to his death by a gunshot wound of a revolver held in his own hand.

The coroner's inquest, held at the D. M. Clark & Co. morgue on Tuesday afternoon decided that Gustave Menz had killed his wife and that Mr. Menz had committed suicide.

The examination was conducted by Attorney Mal D. Clark. The members of the coroner's jury were T. J. Lee, Andrew Berglund, M. L. Hostager, Fred Drexler, Archie Purdy and C. Hougstad.

The Autopsy

An autopsy was held shortly after by Drs. R. A. Beise, C. S. Reimstad and D. E. Nelson. The deductions there made were to the effect that Mrs. Gustave Menz died first.

There were five bullet wounds in the head of Mrs. Menz. One of them fractured two vertebrae in her neck and went through the base of the brain. Another bullet went through the back of her head and into the brain. Either would have caused instant death. Four bullets lodged in her head. One made a scalp wound.

Menz shot himself through the right temple, the bullet passing through his head, causing instant death.

Of importance was the autopsy and its results, for it determined the succession regarding the inheritance of the several estates.

Deaths Affect Inheritance

Had Mrs. Menz died after Mr. Menz she would have inherited her third share of the property and upon her death the same would have descended to her daughter.

She died first and Gustave Menz inherits from his wife his share and such share descends to his children.

Mrs. Floyd Smith, daughter of Mrs. Menz, will inherit two-thirds of her mother's estate, the other third going to the heirs of Gustave Menz. She held considerable stock in western mining and oil companies and had money in the bank. Some of this property is in the name of her first husband, Mr. Hammer, and was never probated, it is said. She was about 48 years old. Her daughter lives in Centalla, Wash., and mother in Michigan.

Mr. Menz's first wife died in January, 1914. On December 2 he was married to Mrs. Katherine Hammer, a widow, whose acquaintance he had gained in a matrimonial advertisement and who was reputed to be worth $18,000. She left him on February 9 and refused to live with him any more. She started divorce proceedings and the case was on the calendar to be heard at this term of court.

Emily Anderson's Testimony

The first witness called at the inquest was Miss Emily Anderson, of 1411 Oak street. It was at the home of herself and sisters that Mrs. Menz was employed as a housekeeper. Miss Anderson said she was ironing in the kitchen Monday afternoon. Mrs. Menz was in the dining room washing dishes and standing near the pantry.

Mr. Menz walked in without knocking. It was then about ten minutes to two. Mr. Menz asked Mrs. Menz to return and live with him.

"No, never," said Mrs. Menz. "Then you don't want your money?" asked Mr. Menz. This had reference to the $25 allowance the court had decreed Mr. Menz should pay his wife monthly during the pendency of the divorce case.

"Yes, I want the money," said Mrs. Menz.

They talked two or three minutes and Miss Anderson thought nothing out of the ordinary was happening. Both were standing. He walked towards her and had a receipt book in his hand which was the same receipt book he had used when he paid her allowance money previously.

As he walked to her he pulled something out of his pocket which Miss Anderson saw glisten and thought it was a revolver.

Menz looked at Miss Anderson and stared at her. She became frightened and ran out.

Heard the Shots

As soon as Miss Anderson was outside the kitchen she heard a shot. She ran to the K. S. Bredenberg residence one door east, No. 1421 Oak street. Twenty feet from her own home, Miss Anderson heard the second shot. Before she could run to and reach the Bredenberg home she heard the third shot.

W. E. Erickson's Testimony

W. E. Erickson, of the firm of Bredenberg & Erickson, said he was called to the phone by Mrs. K. S. Bredenberg, wife of his partner. She said: "Somebody is shot." Walter F. Kunitz was in the store at the time and ran down Oak street with Mr. Erickson.

At Oak and Fourteenth streets they met Chris Mathison. All three ran to 1411 Oak street. Mr. Erickson heard a shot as he reached the sidewalk in front of the house. When he entered the room he found both Mr. and Mrs. Menz dead.

Chris Mathison's Story

Chris Mathison was the first to enter the chamber of death. The bodies lay in the pantry. She was on her knees with face towards the south wall. Her hair and clothing had caught on a nail of the shelves. The pantry measured two by four feet. Menz was in a leaning position with head against the wall. The revolver was lying between them.

Shells on Floor

Five empty, used shells were found on the floor. Deputy Sheriff John A. Gile took possession of the gun, said to be one of 32 caliber. The inquest showed the revolver had been reloaded and one shot discharged from it. Four shells remained in the revolver.

Brooding Over the Matter

Arhart Menz, a son of Mr. Menz, said his father had brooded over the divorce suit. He had eaten his dinner at home and left his home on Bluff avenue north shortly after 1 o'clock. In his pocketbook, examined after Mr. Menz's death, was found $38.42, which indicated that he had taken with him sufficient money to pay his wife's allowance.

Children of Mr. Menz

Mr. Menz is survived by nine children. All of these will be present at the funeral except Gunther Menz, of Glasgow, Mont. The children are Arhart Menz, of Brainerd, aged 31; Mrs. Matha English, of Brainerd, aged 36; Herman Menz, of Brainerd, aged 26; William Menz, of Minneapolis, aged 28; Miss Lena Menz, of Brainerd, aged 19; Gustave Menz, Jr., of Brainerd, aged 15; Mrs. Kate Mack, of Brainerd, aged 24; Mrs. Ella Mack, of Minneapolis, aged 22; Gunther Menz, of Glasgow, Mont., aged 34.

The Funeral

The funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the Presbyterian church, Rev. W. J. Lowrie officiating.

Lodge Affiliations

Mr. Menz was a member of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, belonging to Homestead No. 692. His membership in the Sons of Herman had lapsed. He was about 56 years old, was born in Germany and came to the United States in 1880. He was of an industrious, saving nature and had amassed a competence said to be from $15,000 to $20,000, owning considerable farm land in the county and real estate in the city.

They left the house, entered the waiting automobile, and drove rapidly towards the confines of the city. By Quest's directions the automobile was brought to a standstill at a point where it skirted the main railway line, and close to the section house which he had appointed for his rendezvous with Laura. She had apparently seen their approach, and she came out to meet them at once, accompanied by a short, thick-set man whom she introduced as Mr. Horan. "This is Mr. Horan, the section boss," she explained. Mr. Horan shook hands. "Say, I've heard of you, Mr. Quest," he announced. "The young lady tells me you are some interested in that prisoner they lost off the cars near here."

"That's so," Quest admitted. "We'd like to go to the spot if we could." "That's dead easy," the boss replied. "I'll take you along on the handcar." The section boss turned round and whistled. From a little side track two men jumped on to a handcar, and brought it around to where they were standing. A few yards away the man who was propelling it—a great, red-headed Irishman—suddenly ceased his efforts. Leaning over his pole, he gazed at Quest. A sudden ferocity darkened his coarse face. He gripped his mate by the arm.

"See that bloke there?" he asked, pointing at Quest. "The guy with the linen collar?" the other answered. "I see him."

"That's Quest, the detective," the Irishman went on hoarsely. "That's the man who got me five years in the pen, the best! That's the man I've been looking for. You're my mate, Jim, eh?"

"I guess so," the other grunted. "Are you going to try and do him in?" "Now then, you fellows," Horan shouted. "What are you hanging about there for, Red Gallagher? Bring the carriage up. You fellows can have a smoke for an hour. I'm going to take her down the line for a bit."

The two men obeyed and disappeared in the direction of the section house. Quest looked after them curiously.

"That's a big fellow," he remarked. "What did you call him? Red Gallagher? I seem to have seen him before."

"He was the most troublesome fellow on the line once, although he was the biggest worker," the boss replied. "He got five years in the penitentiary and that seems to have taken the spirit out of him."

"I believe I was in the case," Quest observed carelessly.

"That's so! Now then, young ladies," Mr. Horan advised, "hold tight, and here goes!"

They ambled down the line for about half a mile. Then Horan brought them to standstill.

"This is the spot," he declared. "Now, if you want my impressions you are welcome to them. All the search has been made on the right-hand side here and in New York. I've had my eye on that hill for a long time. My impression is that he hid there."

"I'll take your advice," Quest decided. "We'll spread out and take a little exercise in hill climbing."

"Good luck to you!" the boss exclaimed. They searched carefully and deliberately for more than half an hour. Then Laura suddenly called out. They looked around to find only her head visible. She scrambled up, muddy and with wet leaves clinging to her skirt.

"Say, that guy of a section boss told me to look out for caves. I've been in one, sure enough! Only just saved myself."

They hurried to where she was. Quest peered into the declivity down which she had slipped. Suddenly he gave vent to a little exclamation. At the same time Laura called out. An inch or two of tweed was clearly visible through the strewn leaves. Quest, flat on his stomach, crawled a little way down, took out his electric torch from his pocket and brushed the stuff away. Then he clambered to his feet.

"Our search is over," he declared gravely, "and your troubles, Lenora. That is Macdough's body."

Lenora's face sank into her hands for a moment. Quest stood on one side while Laura passed her arm around the other girl's waist. Quest glanced at his watch. "I'll have to get," he said, "but I'll send someone along. Cheer up, Lenora," he added kindly. "Look after her, Laura."

Quest hastened along the road to the spot where he had left the car. The chauffeur, who saw him coming started up and climbed to his seat. Quest took his place. "Drive to the office," he ordered. The man slipped in his clutch. They were in the act of gliding off when there was a tremendous report. They stopped short. The man jumped down and looked at the back tire. "Blowout," he remarked laconically. Quest frowned. "How long will it take?"

"Four minutes," the man replied. "I've got another wheel ready. That's the queerest blowout I ever saw, though."

The two men leaned over the tire. Suddenly Quest's expression changed. His hand stole into his hip pocket. "Tom," he explained, "that wasn't a blowout at all. Look here!" He pointed to the small level hole. Almost at once he stood back and the sunshine flashed upon the revolver clutched in his right hand. "That was a bullet," he continued. "Someone fired at that tire. Tom, there's trouble about."

The man looked nervously around. "That's a rifle bullet, sure," he muttered. "Get on the wheel as quick as you can," Quest directed. "Here, I'll give you a hand."

He stooped down to unfasten the straps which fastened the spare wheel. It was one of his rare lapses, realized a moment too late. Almost in his ears came the hoarse cry: "Hands up, gunner! Hands up this second or I'll blow you to hell!" (To be Continued)

SPORT NOTES

By Hal Sheridan
(Written for the United Press)

New York, May 5.—There is fire in the eyes of John McGraw and anger in the heart of Harry Hempstead and John Foster over the twenty-one player rule that was forced upon the National league this season with malice aforethought, or otherwise, but mainly through the instigation of Barney Dreyfuss. None of the above mentioned trio over thought enough of the player limit to make it the cause of a general celebration, and they like it still less since the recent performance of Pitcher Chalmers of Philadelphia.

For two years this same Chalmers vainly attempted to break into the game as a regular Giant. Last fall he went out during practice sessions and showed Scout Kinsella a lot of things that made the ivory-comber real joyous, but when Kinsella would have impressed his own valuation of Chalmers on his boss, he succeeded as rapidly as a German getting the English viewpoint on the cause of the Biggest Thing in all the World.

Hence, when the twenty-one player rule forced McGraw to look around for someone to let go, the "Little Napoleon" fixed his orb on Chalmers, when he had taken south this spring after every one else refused to give the youngster a chance. The New York B. B. club, Inc., paid all the training expenses, and, to show his appreciation, Chalmers worked hard and got in excellent shape. Chalmers regretted leaving the United States for Philadelphia but he went with gratitude over the fact that he still remained a big leaguer.

His next appearance was in New York in a Philly uniform. The result of his spring training showed in the box score which recorded that the Giants made two hits and that seven of them fanned. And New York is sadly in want of pitchers. We venture to predict that there will be no twenty-one player rule next year.

A number of other National league teams have felt the pinch of the same regulation and these who figured that it might cause the quality of the baseball played by Tenor's organization to deteriorate were not much more wrong than those who thought Germany had a great army.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

Lima, O., May 5.—"I'm your long lost husband, H. W. Trexler," said a man to Florence Makin, 29, on the street the other night. "I've been living in Allentown, Pa., for 3 years, since I deserted you."

"Uh huh, mebbe!" replied Florence, "but you gotta show me."

Florence had lost a husband by desertion, but she sort of forgot how he looked, she said. She put on a man's makeup and followed the "suspect," shadowing him for several days.

"Not him," she says.

When Brainerd Citizens Show a Way

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Brainerd citizen says:

Mrs. Caroline Sundberg, 1504 E. Pine St., Brainerd, says: "I suffered for several years from backache. I was uncomfortable while I was doing my work and often I couldn't sleep well. I was distressed by dizzy spells and often after I stood for awhile, my feet swelled and bloated. The doctor said I had kidney trouble, but failed to help me. Finally, I got Doan's Kidney Pills at H. P. Dunn's Drug Store. The pains in my back left and I felt stronger and was better able to do my work." (Statement given August 31, 1908.) Over five years later Mrs. Sundberg said: "The relief Doan's Kidney Pills gave me from backaches and kidney troubles has been permanent."

Allies Drive Turks Out of Their Positions.

London, May 5.—British troops are now advancing into the interior of the Gallipoli peninsula, according to an official statement issued in London. The statement is as follows:

"Saturday and Sunday nights the enemy launched strong and determined attacks in mass against our positions, constantly bringing up fresh troops. Not only did the allies repulse every attack, inflicting enormous losses on the enemy, but we assumed the offensive, drove the enemy out of their positions and are now advancing into the interior of the peninsula."

ROOM FOR JEWS IN WEST

Jacob Schiff Would Bring Two Million From Abroad.

New York, May 5.—Jacob H. Schiff's suggestion that at least 2,000,000 Jews from abroad should emigrate to the country beyond the Mississippi river aroused enthusiasm among those interested in the movement to aid Jewish sufferers from the war. He declared that the West is ready to welcome them and that a land of plenty awaits them there.

Mr. Schiff's proposal was made in an address to the Educational alliance on his return from a trip to San Antonio, San Francisco, Kansas City and Chicago, undertaken to discover the sentiment toward the Jews in the West.

Everywhere he went he said he found the feeling kindly and the Jewish people happy.

The BLACK BOX
By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

They left the house, entered the waiting automobile, and drove rapidly towards the confines of the city.
By Quest's directions the automobile was brought to a standstill at a point where it skirted the main railway line, and close to the section house which he had appointed for his rendezvous with Laura. She had apparently seen their approach, and she came out to meet them at once, accompanied by a short, thick-set man whom she introduced as Mr. Horan.
"This is Mr. Horan, the section boss," she explained.
Mr. Horan shook hands.
"Say, I've heard of you, Mr. Quest," he announced. "The young lady tells me you are some interested in that prisoner they lost off the cars near here."
"That's so," Quest admitted. "We'd like to go to the spot if we could."
"That's dead easy," the boss replied. "I'll take you along on the handcar."
The section boss turned round and whistled. From a little side track two men jumped on to a handcar, and brought it around to where they were standing. A few yards away the man who was propelling it—a great, red-headed Irishman—suddenly ceased his efforts. Leaning over his pole, he gazed at Quest. A sudden ferocity darkened his coarse face. He gripped his mate by the arm.
"See that bloke there?" he asked, pointing at Quest.
"The guy with the linen collar?" the other answered. "I see him."
"That's Quest, the detective," the Irishman went on hoarsely. "That's the man who got me five years in the pen, the beast! That's the man I've been looking for. You're my mate, Jim, eh?"
"I guess so," the other grunted. "Are you going to try and do him in?"
"Now then, you fellows," Horan shouted. "What are you hanging about there for. Red Gallagher? Bring the carriage up. You fellows can have a smoke for an hour. I'm going to take her down the line for a bit."
The two men obeyed and disappeared in the direction of the section house. Quest looked after them curiously.
"That's a big fellow," he remarked. "What did you call him? Red Gallagher? I seem to have seen him before."
"He was the most troublesome fellow on the line once, although he was the biggest worker," the boss replied. "He got five years in the penitentiary and that seems to have taken the spirit out of him."
"I believe I was in the case," Quest observed carelessly.
"That's so! Now then, young ladies," Mr. Horan advised, "hold tight, and here goes!"
They ambled down the line for about half a mile. Then Horan brought them to standstill.
"This is the spot," he declared. "Now, if you want my impressions you are welcome to them. All the search has been made on the right-hand side here and in New York. I've had my eye on that bill for a long time. My impression is that he hid there."
"I'll take your advice," Quest decided. "We'll spread out and take a little exercise in hill climbing."
"Good luck to you!" the boss exclaimed.
They searched carefully and deliberately for more than half an hour. Then Laura suddenly called out. They looked around to find only her head visible. She scrambled up, muddy and with wet leaves clinging to her skirt.
"Say, that guy of a section boss told me to look out for caves. I've been in one, sure enough! Only just saved myself."
They hurried to where she was. Quest peered into the declivity down which she had slipped. Suddenly he gave vent to a little exclamation. At the same time Laura called out. An inch or two of tweed was clearly visible through the strewn leaves. Quest, flat on his stomach, crawled a little way down, took up his electric torch from his pocket and brushed the stuff away. Then he clambered to his feet.
"Our search is over," he declared gravely. "And your troubles, Lenora. That is MacDougal's body."
Lenora's face sank into her hands for a moment. Quest stood on one side while Laura passed her arm around the other girl's waist.
Quest glanced at his watch.
"I'll have to get," he said, "but I'll send someone along. Cheer up, Lenora. He added kindly. "Look after her, Laura."
Quest hastened along the road to the spot where he had left the car. The chauffeur, who saw him coming started up and climbed to his seat. Quest took his place.
"Drive to the office," he ordered.
The man slipped in his clutch. They were in the act of gliding off when there was a tremendous report. They stopped short. The man jumped down and looked at the back tire.
"Blowout," he remarked laconically. Quest frowned.
"How long will it take?"

"Four minutes," the man replied. "I've got another wheel ready. That's the queerest blowout I ever saw, though."
The two men leaned over the tire. Suddenly Quest's expression changed. His hand stole into his hip pocket.
"Tom," he explained, "that wasn't a blowout at all. Look here!"
He pointed to the small level hole. Almost at once he stood back and the sunshine flashed upon the revolver clutched in his right hand.
"That was a bullet," he continued. "Someone fired at that tire. Tom, there's trouble about."
The man looked nervously around. "That's a rifle bullet, sure," he muttered.
"Get on the wheel as quick as you can," Quest directed. "Here, I'll give you a hand."
He stooped down to unfasten the straps which fastened the spare wheel. It was one of his rare lapses, realized a moment too late. Almost in his ears came the hoarse cry:
"Hands up, gunner! Hands up this second or I'll blow you to hell!"

SPORT NOTES
By Hal Sheridan
(Written for the United Press)
New York, May 5.—There is fire in the eyes of John McGraw and anger in the heart of Harry Hempstead and John Foster over the twenty-one player rule that was forced upon the National league this season with malice aforethought, or otherwise, but mainly through the instigation of Barney Dreyfuss. None of the above mentioned trio over thought enough of the player limit to make it the cause of a general celebration, and they like it still less since the recent performance of Pitcher Chalmers of Philadelphia.
For two years this same Chalmers vainly attempted to break into the game as a regular Giant. Last fall he went out during practice sessions and showed Scout Kinsella a lot of things that made the ivory-comber real joyous, but when Kinsella would have impressed his own valuation of Chalmers on his boss, he succeeded as rapidly as a German getting the English viewpoint on the cause of the Biggest Thing in all the World.
Hence, when the twenty-one player rule forced McGraw to look around for someone to let go, the "Little Napoleon" fixed his orb on Chalmers, when he had taken south this spring after every one else refused to give the youngster a chance. The New York B. B. club, Inc., paid all the training expenses, and, to show his appreciation, Chalmers worked hard and got in excellent shape. Chalmers regretted leaving the United States for Philadelphia but he went with gratitude over the fact that he still remained a big leaguer.
His next appearance was in New York in a Philly uniform. The result of his spring training showed in the box score which recorded that the Giants made two hits and that seven of them fanned. And New York is sadly in want of pitchers. We venture to predict that there will be no twenty-one player rule next year.
A number of other National league teams have felt the pinch of the same regulation and these who figured that it might cause the quality of the baseball played by Tenor's organization to deteriorate were not much more wrong than those who thought Germany had a great army.

"The Best Tobacco Made"
Emphatic Statement by an Eminent Authority—Pipe-smokers, Read what John G. Capers Has to Say

"When I was Commissioner of Internal Revenue under Presidents Roosevelt's and Taft's Administrations, I had a great deal to do with tobacco. In the collection of millions of dollars of tax I came intimately into contact with the whole business. Tuxedo I consider the best tobacco made. I smoke it myself and find it soothing and restful, mild, fragrant and non-irritating to the throat."

Mr. Smoker, that's evidence straight from an authority that Tuxedo is the top-notch smoke of them all. The tobacco that a famous Internal Revenue Commissioner chooses for his own smoke because he considers it the best tobacco made.
And remember this, men:—that's picking Tuxedo from a mighty big field; for between you and us and the account sheet, the Government collects $100,000,000 a year in revenues from tobaccos.
Mr. Capers is now a prominent and successful practicing lawyer in Washington, D. C., and we are glad to include his name in Tuxedo's great list of friends. It's the same old story everywhere Tuxedo is tried: Quality tells.

Don't quarrel with your pipe and don't quarrel with your tongue. Take your tobacco troubles to good old Tuxedo!
Your pipe'll be sweet and your tongue'll be sound if you smoke Tuxedo. Tuxedo can't bite or blister. That's all taken out by the famous "Tuxedo Process"—the original process which the other brands like so well that they try to imitate it.
And you'll find the Internal Revenue Commissioner absolutely right as to Tuxedo's quality.

NO REASON FOR IT
When Brainerd Citizens Show a Way
There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Brainerd citizen says:
Mrs. Caroline Sundberg, 1504 E. Pine St., Brainerd, says: "I suffered for several years from backache. I was uncomfortable while I was doing my work and often I couldn't sleep well. I was distressed by dizzy spells and often after I stood for awhile, my feet swelled and bloated. The doctor said I had kidney trouble, but failed to help me. Finally, I got Doan's Kidney Pills at H. P. Dunn's Drug Store. The pains in my back left and I felt stronger and was better able to do my work." (Statement given August 31, 1908.) Over five years later Mrs. Sundberg said: "The relief Doan's Kidney Pills gave me from backaches and kidney troubles has been permanent."
Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Sundberg had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advt.

ARE NOW ADVANCING INTO THE INTERIOR
Allies Drive Turks Out of Their Positions.
London, May 5.—British troops are now advancing into the interior of the Gallipoli peninsula, according to an official statement issued in London. The statement is as follows:
"Saturday and Sunday nights the enemy launched strong and determined attacks in mass against our positions, constantly bringing up fresh troops.
"Not only did the allies repulse every attack, inflicting enormous losses on the enemy, but we assumed the offensive, drove the enemy out of their positions and are now advancing into the interior of the peninsula."

ROOM FOR JEWS IN WEST
Jacob Schiff Would Bring Two Million From Abroad.
New York, May 5.—Jacob H. Schiff's suggestion that at least 2,000,000 Jews from abroad should emigrate to the country beyond the Mississippi river aroused enthusiasm among those interested in the movement to aid Jewish sufferers from the war. He declared that the West is ready to welcome them and that a land of plenty awaits them there.
Mr. Schiff's proposal was made in an address to the Educational alliance on his return from a trip to San Antonio, San Francisco, Kansas City and Chicago, undertaken to discover the sentiment toward the Jews in the West.
Everywhere he went he said he found the feeling kindly and the Jewish people happy.

JURIST PERISHES IN FIRE
Spanish Judge Overcome While Trying to Save Court Records.
Madrid, May 5.—Fire broke out in the palace of justice, starting in the supreme court room. Judge Aranda was overcome by smoke and perished while endeavoring to save the court records. Many firemen were injured. Owing to the failure of the water pressure the flames rapidly spread and the entire edifice, which was erected in 1758, soon was ablaze.
